

21th century SHEEPS
ALL-TERRAIN, PERFORMANCE, PROFITABILITY

Newsletter nr 10
September, 2017

Sommet de l'Élevage 2017 :

ROM Selection breeds under the sunlights !

Sommet de l'élevage took place from Wednesday 4 to Friday 6th october 2017 in Cournon (France).

The ROM breeds, especially Blanche du Massif Central and Noire du Velay, have been under the sunlights.

More than 30 boxes have been prepared in order to show young and adult rams, young females and ewes, pure-bred or F1 cross bred lambs the only ones ont the Show, one more time.

With this, ROM SELECTION will show the flexibility of the hardy breeds.

We'll welcome a lot of foreign delegation including Sudan, Azerbaïdjan, Belarus, Sweden, Chile and South America, Belgium, Iran , Mongolia, Austria.

The traditional pre-tour , on Tuesday 3rd, will bring the foreign visitors to genetic station of Paysat-Bas, a BMC breeder and a Limousin sheep breeder.

Last but not least, our specialist Kevin Chile, will present the first results on our workshop about genetic resistance to intestinal parasits. As you can see, ROM SELECTION can help you on all the items.

The pre-tour

Our booth

The manager of Paysat-Bas genetic station with Iranian visitors

Some recent exports

A 860 flock has been sent to Iran at the beginning of July. Several breeds were concerned, including BMC. By truck to Liege airport (Belgium), than by plane to Tehran airport..

79 heads have left to Romania, 24 males and 55 females, grouped by the Mountain breeders

50 years for the Genetic Station of Paysat

As early as 1967, some pioneer created the Paysat-Bas genetic station, sometimes called FEDATEST, to improve the performances of the Massif Central hardy breeds, especially meat and maternal qualities. From now on, this genetic station, the only one in Europe, can provide the genetic top to the breeders. In 50 years, prolificity has grown from 1 to 1.7 lambs per lambing and the lambs reach 40 kg live weight in 110 days, much better than 200 days fifty years ago !! This is genetic progress !!

ROM Sélection

Phone : 00 33 647 068 061

E-mail : romdeveloppement@orange.fr

Français, English, Deutsch, Nederlands, Español

François TAHON,

Export Manager

At your service !

